Message From the Commander

Another month ripped off the calendar and put in the circular file. That said, post-holiday season is always a bit of a downer for us out here...and I know that it is the same for you back there. Thanks for enduring this separation. There are many good things happening out here. We have a much stronger coalition than we have ever had and we are closer to rolling up some key suspects. But the best news of all is that your loved ones continue to perform in a truly magnificent manner and to generate a camaraderie and esprit that has been a joy to watch and be a part of. You can be very proud of what they have done. As I said in my November News Letter — Sacrifice has a unique way of helping us to appreciate the things we otherwise take for granted. We appreciate and look forward with great anticipation to the opportunity to return home to your loving care and encouragement.

There is an old quote that says – “The only thing worse than war is the belief that nothing is worth fighting for.” I am thankful that you and I both understand that there are things worth fighting for and that we have demonstrated our resolve through our actions. As I said in November, we are here guarding the gates of freedom against terrorism and tyranny, and you are there taking care of family, friends, and loved ones. Thank you for your sacrifice.

This week I visited a project we had just completed. It was the renovation of a dilapidated school in a small hut village in southern Djibouti. The entire town turned out to thank us for fixing the roof, doors, windows, toilets, lighting and water cistern. We provided the materials and supervision while they did much of the work. It was a wonderful team effort. Their enthusiasm and deep appreciation for what you and I would consider a very small contribution was over whelming.

Your loved ones are having a significant impact out here in winning back the neighborhoods from the terrorists who would seek to move in and enflame the passions of an impoverished people. We are winning and you should be proud. Hang tough and keep your eye on our President's objective – to free the world of terrorist tyranny. Thank you for your continued support and prayers. Keep the home fires burning and God bless you.

Sincerely,
Mastin M. Robeson
Brigadier General, US Marine Corps

From the Enduring Freedom Chapel

Chaplain's Corner

By Cmdr. John H. Lea, CJTF-HOA Chaplain

We live and work in a very unique environment aboard Camp Lemonnier, Djibouti. The African winter is warm and at odds with our typical seasonal experiences. Additionally, many of us are working shoulder to shoulder with other services, and indeed, representatives of other countries, for the first time in our military careers. Furthermore, while some of our coalition partners are traditional friends, others are newcomers to our combined efforts against terrorism. And yet, there is one team aboard our camp whom most of us have even less experience with yet depend upon so much for our daily existence. This team is the folks from Kellogg, Brown & Root – or, as we commonly call them – Brown & Root.

Brown & Root employees, nearly 300 of them, share the same hardships we experience – the dust, the heat, threat condition, lack of privacy, and separation from family – and successfully accomplish a complex mission daily. These men and women quietly fix our air conditioners, prepare our meals, launder our clothes, maintain our roads, install our power, construct new facilities, issue water, remove our trash, deliver fuel and coordinate our transportation to and from Djibouti. This work force hails from Croatia, Bosnia, Macedonia, Hungary, Djibouti and America. They serve us working in long shifts and odd hours ensuring we enjoy an impressive quality of life all without much fanfare or ado.

Their diligent work frees us up to accomplish our military tasks while providing us with many creature comforts that are easily taken for granted. The chain aboard Camp Lemonnier is fastened together with many links – the men and women of Brown & Root comprise an important link in our mission's efforts and deserve both our respect and thanks for a daily job well done!

Service members supporting Combined Joint Task Force-Horn of Africa performed "The Greatest Story Ever Told" for the last time Jan. 5 at La Cathedral de Notre Dame in Djibouti City, Djibouti. The actors performed the play numerous times both aboard Camp Lemonnier and in Djibouti to help bring boost morale and bring the holiday spirit to the troops.

DOD resumes anthrax shots

WASHINGTON — A federal judge ruled Jan. 7 that the Defense Department could again legally administer anthrax immunizations to service members.

Military commanders “should immediately resume the anthrax vaccination program,” wrote Dr. David S.C. Chu, DOD personnel chief, in a department-wide memorandum.

The department’s anthrax vaccine immunization program had been suspended since Dec. 23, after an injunction granted the previous day by the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia caused DOD to suspend the program.

The department “remains convinced that the AVIP complies with all legal requirements, and there is now no judicial restraint” on administration of the vaccine, Dr. Chu wrote.

Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld and Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman Air Force Gen. Richard B. Myers maintain the anthrax vaccine is a safe and necessary prophylactic for U.S. service members deployed in the war against terrorism where enemies may employ biological, chemical or nuclear weapons of mass destruction.

Both Secretary Rumsfeld and General Myers have received anthrax shots.

New Relief Act Provisions Protect Service Members

By Sgt. 1st Class Doug Sample, American Forces Press Service

WASHINGTON — A new law replacing the Soldiers’ and Sailors’ Civil Relief Act (SSCRA) of 1940 will provide military personnel — especially those deployed or called to active duty — greater protections to handle their personal financial and legal obligations, Defense Department officials said here.

President Bush signed the Service Members’ Civil Relief Act (SCRA) into law Dec. 19.

“The focus of the SCRA is the same as under the SSCRA: to provide protections to service members who have difficulty meeting their personal financial and legal obligations because of their military service,” said Air Force Lt. Col. Patrick Lindemann, deputy director for legal policy in DoD’s Office of the Undersecretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness.

“The SCRA is a significant law, because it clarifies and updates the provisions that existed in the SSCRA, while adding some additional protections,” he said.

“Service members on long-term deployments or called to active duty should not have to worry about their families in their absence being evicted from their quarters without sufficient legal protections,” he continued, “or that they are paying on a leased car or apartment that they can’t use, or about civil legal proceedings they can’t attend because of their deployment.

“These are some of the situations the SCRA covers so that service members are able to devote their energies to the military mission and the defense needs of the nation, and not on civil matters waiting for them at home,” he added.

What Lindemann called “a significant change” added in the SCRA is an automatic 90-day stay of civil proceedings upon application by the service member. This applies to all judicial and administrative hearings. In the past, according to Lindemann, stays were discretionary with the courts.

The SCRA also makes it clear that the 6 percent limitation on interest rates for pre-service debts requires a reduction in monthly payments, and that any interest in excess of 6 percent is forgiven, not deferred, Lindemann said.

The SCRA also expanded the protection against eviction. Under the SSCRA, service members and their dependents who entered into a lease for $1,200 or less could not be evicted without a court order. The SCRA increased that maximum lease amount to $2,400 and added an annual adjustment for inflation. For 2004, the maximum will be $2,465. Lindemann said this will significantly increase the number of service members entitled to this protection.

The SCRA also gives the service member who has received permanent change of station (PCS) orders or who is being deployed for not less than 90 days the right to terminate a housing lease with 30 days’ written notice. Prior to the SCRA, service members could be required to pay for housing they were unable to occupy.

One of the more significant provisions in the SCRA that did not exist in the SSCRA, Lindemann said, was an added protection for service members who have motor vehicle leases. Any active-duty service member who has received PCS orders outside the continental United States, or who is being deployed for not less than 180 days, may terminate a motor vehicle lease. The law prohibits early termination charges. “Now, service members won’t have to pay monthly lease payments for a car they can’t use,” said Lindemann.

“Service members may not always realize all the protections they have under the law,” Lindemann said. “If service members have questions about the SCRA or the protections that they may be entitled to, they should contact their unit judge advocate or installation legal assistance officer for further assistance.”
